ভূমিকা

গতবছর আমরা সংসদের পক্ষ থেকে একাদশ ও দ্বাদশ শ্রেণীর বিজ্ঞানের ছাত্র ছাত্রীদের জন্য, বিশেষ করে যারা উচ্চমাধ্যমিকের সঙ্গে রাজ্যের জয়েন্ট এন্ট্রান্স ও সর্বভারতীয় প্রতিযোগিতা মূলক প্রবেশিকা পরীক্ষায় অংশগ্রহণ করতে চায়-তাদের কথা ভেবে Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics ও Biology-এই চারটি বিজ্ঞান ভিত্তিক বিষয়ের পৃথক পৃথক MCQ টাইপ ‘Concepts with sample Question and Solutions’ -এর বই প্রকাশ করা হয়েছিল।

এবছরও প্রথম সংসদের শিক্ষা বিভাগের (Academic Department) উদ্যোগে বিজ্ঞান বিষয়ের Mock Test Papers for Higher Secondary and All India Competitive Entrance Examination প্রকাশ করা হয়েছে। এই বইতে Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics ও Biology - এই চারটি বিষয়ের প্রতি বিষয়ে ২৫টি করে Mock Question Paper আছে। পরীক্ষার প্রশ্নপত্র সম্পর্কে সম্যক ধারণা ও উপযুক্ত প্রস্তুতির জন্য এই বইটি প্রকাশের উদ্যোগ। আনন্দের বিষয় এই যে বইগুলো শুধু ছাত্র-ছাত্রী ও শিক্ষক মহলে অভূতপূর্ব সাড়া ফেলেছে তাই নয়-সর্বভারতীয় পরীক্ষাগুলিতেও তাদের ফল ভাল হয়েছে।

এবার সংসদের নির্দিষ্ট পাঠক্রম, নম্বর বিভাজন ও Question Pattern এর সঙ্গে সঙ্গতি রেখে বিজ্ঞান, কলা এবং বাণিজ্য তিনটি শাখার বিষয়গুলির উপর উচ্চমাধ্যমিকের জন্য পৃথকভাবে Model Question এর বই প্রকাশ করা হল। এবারে আমরা প্রথম কলা ও বাণিজ্য বিভাগের বিষয় এবং ইংরাজী বিষয়ের Model Question এর বই প্রকাশ করছি। কলা বিষয়গুলির জন্য ২টি Volume এ এবং বাণিজ্য বিষয়গুলির জন্য একটি Volume এ এবং ইংরাজী বিষয়টির জন্য পৃথক বই প্রকাশ করা হল। এই বইয়ের কোনো অংশের সঙ্গে অন্য কোনো বইয়ের কোনো মিল বা সাদৃশ্য যদি খুঁজে পাওয়া যায় তা সম্পূর্ণ অনিচ্ছাকৃত।

রাজ্যের বিশেষজ্ঞ শিক্ষকমণ্ডলী অল্প সময়ের মধ্যে এই অভিনব ও কার্যকরী বইগুলি প্রস্তুত করেছেন তাঁদের ধন্যবাদ অকুণ্ঠ জানাই। সংসদের এ্যাকাডেমিক বিভাগ, যাঁরা গত দু'বছর ধরে ছাত্র-ছাত্রীদের স্বার্থে এধরনের নানা বই প্রকাশে উদ্যোগ গ্রহণ করেছেন তাদের অবশ্যই প্রশংসা প্রাপ্য।

মাননীয় মুখ্যমন্ত্রী ও শিক্ষামন্ত্রীকে আমাদের কৃতজ্ঞতা জানাই যাঁরা আমাদের এধরনের কাজে উৎসাহ দিয়েছেন।

অল্প সময়ের মধ্যে এধরনের গুরুত্বপূর্ণ বই প্রকাশে সামান্য কিছু মুদ্রণ বিভ্রাটের আশঙ্কা থেকেই যায়। আমাদের দৃষ্টিগোচর হলে আমরা যথাযথ ব্যবস্থা গ্রহণ করব।

বইটি সম্পর্কে যেকোনো পরামর্শ মতামত ও প্রস্তাব সাদরে গ্রহণ করা হবে।

দুটি কথা

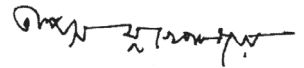

সংসদের উদ্যোগে এবং অ্যাকাডেমিক বিভাগের তত্ত্বাবধানে এই প্রথম উচ্চমাধ্যমিকের ইংরাজি, কলা এবং বাণিজ্য বিভাগের বেশ কয়েকটি বিষয়ের ‘Model Question with key answer for Higher Secondary Examination’ শীর্ষক বইগুলি প্রকাশিত হল। ইংরাজী বিষয়ের শীর্ষক বইটি একটি পৃথক বইয়ের আকারে এবং কলা বিভাগের ৮টি বিষয় ২টি Set এ রয়েছে। Political Science, Philosophy, History ও Education -এই চারটি বিষয় নিয়ে VOL-I এবং Geography, Economics, Sanskrit এবং Computer Application এই চারটি বিষয় নিয়ে VOL-II প্রকাশিত হল।

প্রতিটি বিষয়ের ন্যূনতম ২০টি Model Set of Question Paper সঙ্গে প্রতিটি প্রশ্নপত্রের MCQ ও SAQ এর প্রশ্নগুলির উত্তর সম্বলিত করা হয়েছে।

এর আগে ইতিমধ্যে বিজ্ঞান ভিত্তিক ৪টি বিষয়ের উপর (Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics, Biology) Coceptual Question এর বই এবং Mock Test Paper প্রকাশিত হয়েছে। এবং দারুণভাবে সমাদৃত হয়েছে। এবারে ছাত্র-ছাত্রী ও শিক্ষক সমাজের চাহিদা ও পরামর্শ অনুযায়ী কলা ও বাণিজ্য বিষয়গুলির জন্য নির্দিষ্ট Question Pattern ও নম্বর বিভাজনের ভিত্তিতে প্রশ্নগুলি এমন ভাবে করা হয়েছে যাতে ছাত্র-ছাত্রীদের একদিকে সম্পূর্ণ বইটি পুঙ্খানুপুঙ্খভাবে আত্মস্থ করার সুযোগ থাকছে অন্যদিকে স্বল্প মূল্যের এই বই তাদের পরীক্ষায় প্রস্তুতির ক্ষেত্রে প্রভূত সাহায্য করবে।

যাঁরা দূরহ এই কাজটি করেছেন সেই বিদগ্ধ শিক্ষকমণ্ডলীসহ সংশ্লিষ্ট সকলকে ধন্যবাদ জানাই। ছাত্র-ছাত্রীরা উপকৃত হলে আমাদের শ্রম সার্থক হবে।

The saving of certain wild animals from extinction has for many years been a problem for zoologists and other specialists; but more recently the problem has become so acute, and has received so much publicity, that most people are now concerned about it. This may at first seem strange because one of the most gratifying developments of the last few years has been the passing of strict laws to protect wild animals and the consequent decline in the hunting of big – game for sport. One reason is the "march of civilization". When an area is wholly cleared of vegetation to make room for new towns, factory sites or hydroelectric plants, the natural home of several species is destroyed. The displaced must either migrate to another area or perish. Even the clearing of land for a road or an airfield may involve 'pushing back' the jungle, and the smaller the area in which wild animals compete for a living the smaller the number that can hope to survive.

Civilisation brings, too, swift and easy transport and so assists those who are determined to break the various protective laws. Thieves can elude the game wardens, shoot an elephant for its tusks, a rhinoceros for its horn, or a deer for its meat and be miles away from the site of the crime before the dead or dying victim is even discovered. Civilization which brings so many benefits to people brings also facilities for the heartless criminals who, for only material gain, slaughter harmless animals and threaten the disappearance of its kind from the earth forever.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. (You need not write Sentence. Write only the number)(1×4=4)

- i) The development of passing strict laws to protect wild animals had not been gratifying.
- ii) The 'march of civilization' leads to the destruction of several species
- iii) Civilization is a hindrance to the criminals.
- iv) Criminals slaughter harmless animals and threaten its extinction only for material gain.

b) Answer each of the following questions in about 30 words:- (2×3=6)

- i) What has most people become concerned about?
- ii) How is 'march of civilization' responsible for extinction of animals?
- iii) How does civilization help criminals?

6. a) Write a letter to the Editor of a newspaper on reckless driving. (2+8=10)

Or, b) Write a report on the celebration of the Annual Function Day in your school. (2+8=10)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8 = 10)

During my vacation last May, I had a hard time choosing a tour. Flights to Japan, Hong Kong and Australia are just too common. What I wanted was somewhere exciting and exotic, a place where I could be spared from the holiday tour crowds. I was so happy when Joan called up, suggesting a trip to Cherokee, a country in the state of Oklahoma. I agreed and went off with the preparation immediately.

We took a flight to Cherokee and visited a town called Qualla Boundary surrounded by magnificent mountain scenery, the town painted a paradise before us. With its Oconaluftee Indian village reproducing tribal crafts and lifestyles of the 18th century and the outdoor historical pageant Unto These Hills playing six times weekly in the summer nights, Qualla Boundary tries to present a brief image of the Cherokee past to the tourists.

Despite the language barrier, we managed to find our way to the souvenir shops with the help of the natives. The shops are filled with rubber tomahawks and colorful traditional war bonnets, made of dyed turkey feathers. Tepees, cone-shaped tents made from animal skin, are also pitched near the shops. "Welcome! Want to get anything?" we looked up and saw a middle-aged man smiling at us. We were very surprised by his fluent English. He introduced himself as George and we ended up chatting till lunch time when he invited us for lunch at a nearby coffee shop.

"Sometimes, I've to work from morning to sunset during the tour season. Anyway, this is still better off than being a woodcutter" Remembrance weighed heavy on George's mind and he went on to tell us that he used to cut firewood for a living but could hardly make ends meet. We learnt from him that the Cherokees do not depend solely on trade for survival. During the tour off-peak period, the tribe would have to try out other means for income. One of the successful ways is the "Bingo Weekend". On the Friday afternoons of the Bingo weekends, a large bingo hall will be opened, attracting huge crowds of people to the various kinds of games like the Super Jackpot and the Warrior Game Special. According to George, these forms of entertainment fetch them great returns.

Our final stop in Qualla Boundary was at the museum where arts, ranging from the simple hand-woven oak baskets to wood and stone carvings of wolves, ravens and other symbols of Cherokee cosmology are displayed. Back at home, I really missed the place and I would of course look forward to the next trip to another exotic place.

When James learnt from his hostess that there was not another house within three miles, that she could accommodate him with a bed, and his horse with lodging and oats, he thanked Heaven for his good fortune in stumbling upon this homely habitation, and determined to pass the night under the protection of the old cottage. She gave him to understand that her husband, who was a farmer, had gone to the next town to dispose off his merchandise, and in all probability would not return till next morning. James sounded the old woman with a thousand artful interrogations and she answered with such appearance of truth and simplicity that he concluded that his person was quite secure, and after he had his supper, desired she would conduct him into the chamber where she proposed he should take his rest. He seemed extremely satisfied with his lodging, which in reality exceeded his expectations, and his kindly landlady, cautioning him against letting the candle approach the straw took her leave, and locked the door on the outside.

James whose experiences taught him to be suspicious and ever on his guard against the treachery of his fellow creatures, could have dispensed with this instance of her care in confining her guest to his chamber and began to be seized with strange fancies, when he observed there was no bolt on the inside of the door, by which he might secure himself from intrusion. Consequently, he began to take a survey of every object in the apartment, and in the course of his enquiry, had the mortification to find the dead body of a man, still warm.

6. a) Write a letter to the Municipal Chairman on the poor drainage system in your locality. (2+8)

Or, b) Write a report on a Tree Plantation Programme organized in your locality. (2+8)

Or, c) Write a précis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8)

As what geographers have estimated, about twenty percent of the earth's surface is occupied by deserts. A majority of us view deserts as one unique kind of landscape — areas with little or no rainfalls.

In actual fact, there are differences between the deserts, though in varying degrees. While it is common for laymen like us to see deserts as rocky or covered with gravel or pebbles, there are some where large sand dunes inhabit. Despite the fact that rainfall is minimal, temperatures do change in deserts, ranging from seasonal ones to daily changes where extreme hotness and coldness are experienced in the day and night.

Unfavourable conditions in the deserts, especially the lack of water, have discouraged many living things from inhabiting these landscapes. Nevertheless, there are exceptionally surviving ones which through their superb tactics, have managed to live through and are still going strong. One such kind is the specialist annual plants which overcome seasonal temperature changes with their extremely short, active life cycles. In events of sudden rain, the plant seeds pullulate and grow very quickly to make full use of the rain water. Their flowers bloom and set seeds that ripen quickly in the hot sun too. Once the water runs dry, the mother plant dies, leaving behind the drought – resistant seeds, waiting patiently for the next rainy season to arrive.

The Cacti, a native in American deserts, adapts to the dry surroundings by having unique body structures. The plant has swollen stems to help store water that carries it through months. By having sharp pines instead of leaves, water loss through respiration is minimized. Besides, these pointed pines also help the plant ward off grazing animals, thus enhancing its survival period.

Besides plants, there are also animals with distinct surviving tactics in deserts too. For instance, Skinks (desert lizards) metabolize stored fats in their bulbous tails, producing water to supplement their needs, just like what camels do with the stored food in their humps during long journeys through deserts. Antelopes like the addax, have very low water needs and hence are able to tolerate the conditions in deserts, extracting moisture from the food they eat.

Finally, there are sandgrouses (desert birds) which do not have special features to overcome the drought-like nature in deserts. Hence, to survive in these hot, dry deserts, they need to spend a large part of their time flying in search of water holes.

'An important reason for ants' success is their ability to talk not with words but with tastes and smells. Their vocabulary is made up of a mixture of substances they produce in various parts of their bodies and emit via their glands. The so-called pheromones are signals that other ants can smell and taste. The messages they communicate set off a specific kind of behavior: fetching food for instance or looking after the brood or feeding the queen. Furthermore, ant-talk is not limited to food. Ants use a hundred, different scents to communicate a hundred different messages. With such a sophisticated array of messenger fragrances, ants organise complicated tasks with close-to-perfect efficiency.

Every ant is a specialist with a vocation of its own. The queen has one of the biggest workloads laying eggs round the clock. Despite the presence of a queen, an ant colony is not a monarchy. The word 'queen' is actually a misnomer. "She doesn't reign over the others," says Holldobler. "She's a machine for laying eggs." From morning till night she produces her daughters, the sterile workers of the colony. Males don't have to do much and the queen only produces them when reproduction time is approaching. Their main job is to fertilise the winged females. After that they die.

Messengers don't have much free time either. When you see a handful of ants scurrying around in the kitchen, without any apparent purpose, it doesn't mean they've lost their bearings. They're scouts foraging for food. Once they have found something edible, they report back to base, depositing their chemical spores on the way. "Food located, please, collect," is the taste and smell message for the other members back at the nest.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. [you need not write the sentences write only the number] (1×4=4)

- i) Ants talk with tastes and smells

6. a) Write a letter to the Editor of a newspaper on the evils of street begging. (2+8)

Or, b) Write a report on a Blood Donation Camp organized in your locality. (2+8)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

Communication is part of our everyday life. We greet one another, smile or frown, depending on our moods. Animals too, communicate, much to our surprise. Just like us, interaction among animals can be both verbal and non-verbal. Singing is one way in which animals can interact with one another. Male blackbirds often use their melodious songs to catch the attention of the females. These songs are usually rich in notes variation, encoding various kinds of messages. Songs are also used to warn and keep off other blackbirds from their territory, usually a place where they dwell and reproduce.

Large mammals in the oceans sing too, according to adventurous sailors. Enormous whales groan and grunt while smaller dolphins and porpoises produce pings, whistles and clicks. These sounds are surprisingly received by other mates as far as several hundred kilometers away.

Besides singing, body language also forms a large part of animals' communication tactics. Dominant hyenas exhibit their power by raising the fur hackles on their necks and shoulders, while the submissive ones normally "surrender" to the powerful parties by crouching their heads low and curling their lips a little, revealing their teeth in friendly smiles.

Colours, which are most conspicuously found on animals, are also important means of interaction among animals. Male birds of paradise, which have the gaudiest coloured feathers often, hang themselves upside down from branches, among fluffing plumes, displaying proudly their feathers, attracting the opposite sex.

The alternating black and white striped coats of zebras have their roles to play too. Each zebra is born with a unique set of stripes which enables its mates to recognize them. When grazing safely, their stripes are all lined up neatly so that none of them loses track of their friends. However, when danger such as a hungry lion approaches, the zebras would dart out in various directions, making it difficult for the lion to choose his target.

Insects such as the wasps, armed with poisonous bites or stings, normally have brightly painted bodies to remind other predators of their power. Hoverflies and other harmless insects also make use of this fact and colour their bodies brightly in attempts to fool their predators into thinking that they are as dangerous and harmful as the wasps too.

Given the fact that most of us spend over 90% of our time indoors, it is most important to recognize that the air we breathe in at home or in offices can be polluted. It can be a cause of ill-health. Air pollutants that are generally present in very low concentrations can assume significance in closed ill-ventilated places.

The indoor air pollution can lead to allergic reactions and cause irritation to the skin, the eyes and the nose. But as is logical to assume, the brunt of insult by pollutants is borne by the lungs. It can lead to the development of fresh breathing problems, especially in those who have allergic tendencies, or it can worsen the existing respiratory illness like asthma and bronchitis.

There can be several of indoor air pollution. Tobacco smoke is one of the most important air pollutants in closed places. "Passive smoking" or environmental tobacco smoke (ETS) pollution can lead to all the harmful effects of tobacco smoking seen in the smokers in their non-smoking companions. ETS as a health hazard has been unequivocally proven and is also getting social recognition now. One can occasionally see signs displaying the all-important message: "Your smoking is injurious to my health" in offices and homes. The children of smoking parents are among the worst affected persons.

The exposure of young children to ETS leads to increased respiratory problems and hospital admissions as compared to non-exposed children. Several studies, including those done at the PGI, have shown an increased risk of lung cancer among women exposed to passive smoking. ETS also worsens the existing lung diseases like asthma and bronchitis. It may be responsible for the development of asthma in children.

The next most important source of indoor air pollution is the allergens. House dust mites (HDM) are very small insects not visible to the naked eye and are the commonest source of allergy in the house. They are ubiquitous and thrive in a warm and moist atmosphere. They breed very fast and are very difficult to eradicate. Modern houses present ample breeding spaces for them in the form of carpets, curtains, mattresses, pillows, etc.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. (1×4=4)

- i) Indoor pollution causes damage to lungs.
- ii) Effects of passive smoking tell more on the health of the smokers.
- iii) Women are more prone to lung cancer due to passive smoking.
- iv) HDM thrives on carpets, curtains, mattresses and pillows.

b) Answer each of the following questions in about 30 words: - (2×3=6)

- i) What problems can be caused by indoor air pollution?
- ii) What is ETS? What effect does it have on the environment?
- iii) What is the source of allergy in the house? Where and how does it thrive?

6. a) Write a letter to the Municipal Chairman on the poor condition of roads and street lights in your locality. (2+8=10)

Or, b) Write a report on a free coaching class organized for the needy students appearing in the Madhyamik and Higher Secondary Examination by your school. (2+8=10)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

All snakes are hunters and predators, feeding on the animals and sometimes their eggs. Having no limbs, snakes cannot hold their preys down to bite; hence they usually swallow them whole. Poisonous snakes sometimes do immobilize their preys with their venom to make consumption easier.

Most poisonous snakes are conspicuously coloured to warn others off. One example is the redheaded krait which has a bluish-black body and scarlet head and tail. Snakes like the cobras, which have less outstanding body colors, display their fatality by lifting the front part of their body and spreading their hoods.

It is truly a myth that poisonous snakes attack humans for food. Humans can never be their targets for food as we are normally too large for them to swallow. In cases where snakes do bite, these attacks are usually defensive ones and the venom injected is normally little or sometimes even none. The full, fatal dose of the venom is only released on smaller animals which the snakes can swallow easily. Besides helping in the killing and immobilizing of their preys, the poison also acts as digestive agents for snakes.

Why then is the venom so deadly? In general, there are three kinds of poisons in the venom, though in varying amounts, depending on the type of snake in question. Venoms usually contain substances that weaken the blood corpuscles and the lining of the blood vessels. Profuse bleeding, often a common result of snake-bites, is caused by the anticoagulants present in the poison which prevents blood clotting. The paralysis of the heart and respiratory muscles is performed by the nervous system attacking toxins.

Though these bites are deadly, certain actions can be taken to slow down the spread of the venom, hence saving the victim's life. Attempting to incise and suck at the spot of the bite is more likely to be harmful than a cure. The poisonous venom usually travels fast into the body upon being released; hence sucking at the mouth of the wound will not help remove the poison, rather, incising the bite may lead the victim to great pain and further profuse bleeding. Instead, a broad, firm crepe bandage should be applied over the wound and up the full limb to compress the tissues and prevent the spread of the venom. After which, the victim must be duly sent to the hospital for professional treatment.

Spam is the flooding of the Internet with many copies of the same message, in an attempt to force the message on people who would not otherwise choose to receive it.

Spam is basically electronic junk mail or junk news group postings. It is sometimes confused with any unsolicited e-mail. But an old friend may also find your e-mail address on the Net and send you a message but this could hardly be called spam, even though it is unsolicited. Real spam is generally e-mail advertising for some product sent to a mailing list or newsgroup.

In addition to wasting people's time with unwanted e-mail, spam also eats up a lot of network bandwidth. There are many organizations and individuals who have taken it upon themselves to fight spam with a variety of techniques. The problem is that because the Internet is public, there is really little that can be done to prevent spam, just as it is impossible to prevent junk mail.

One of the most recent examples of large-scale spamming was the hoax Ericsson e-mail about a free give away, something most people just cannot resist. The letter begins with a claim that since Nokia is giving away telephones, Ericsson will respond by giving away brand new wapphones. But the recipient must forward the letter to a minimum of 20 people to receive the phone. The letter is signed off Anna Swelund, Executive Promotion Manager for Ericsson Marketing. It was later discovered that there was no such person at Ericsson.

There are numerous instances of these e-mails being used maliciously by someone who has a grudge against an ex-spouse, a public official, a former teacher or someone else with an e-mail address. The person mentioned in the e-mail ends up with thousands of requests from people looking for confirmation that the e-mail - which they actually had nothing to do with – is true.

Spamming works on our own greed to receive freebies. You are instructed by a total stranger (or a well meaning but not very bright friend) to forward a message you know nothing about, except for the fact that may be a friend passed it along to you and about 90 of their other very close friends.

Very often the victim can receive so much e-mail (and sometimes faxes and phone calls in the more malicious cases) that they have to get a new e-mail box or phone number – thereby ruining established personal and professional communication channels, which was the original intent of the sender.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. (You need not write the sentences, write only numbers)

(1×4=4)

- i) Spam is a means to force message on people who don't intend to receive.

Or, b) Write a report on the celebration of Annual Sports Day in your school. [Word limit : 150 words] (2+8)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

Buying things today is so simple. Just enter a shop, say a book store, choose the desired book and pay for it. Long ago, before the invention of money, how did people trade?

The most primitive way of exchange should be the barter trade. In this form of transaction, people used goods to exchange for the things that they had in mind. For instance, if person A wanted a book and he had a spare goat, he must look for someone who had the exact opposite, that is, that someone, say person B, must have a spare book of person A's choice and is also in need of a goat. Having found such a person, the problem does not end here. A big goat may not be worth only one book, hence person B may have to offer person A something else, say five chickens. However, he runs the risk of person A rejecting the offer as he may not need the chickens. The above example clearly illustrates the inefficiency of barter trading.

Many years later, the cumbersome barter trade finally gave way to the monetary form of exchange when the idea of money was invented. In the early days, almost anything could qualify as money: beads, shells and even fishing hooks. Then in a region near Turkey, gold coins were used as money. In the beginning, each coin had a different denomination. It was only later, in about 700 BC, that Gyges, the king of Lydia, standardized the value of each coin and even printed his name on the coins.

Monetary means of transaction at first beat the traditional barter trade. However, as time went by, the thought of carrying a ponderous pouch of coins for shopping appeared not only troublesome but thieves attracting. Hence, the Greek and Roman traders who bought goods from people faraway cities, invented checks to solve the problem. Not only are paper checks easy to carry around, they discouraged robbery as these checks can only be used by the person whose name is printed on the notes. Following this idea, banks later issued notes in exchange for gold deposited with them. These bank notes can then be used as cash. Finally, governments of today adopted the idea and began to print paper money, backed by gold for the country's use.

Today, besides enjoying the convenience of using paper notes as the mode of exchange, technology has led man to invent other means of transaction too like the credit and cash cards.

The idea that coffee is bad for heart pops up periodically. It was found that regularly drinking very strong coffee could sharply increase cholesterol levels. Researchers even isolated fat like chemicals, cafestol and kahweol, responsible for the rise. It turned out that the European brewing method – boiling water sits on the coffee grounds for several minutes before straining – produces high concentrations cafestol and kahweol. By contrast, the filter and percolation methods remove all but a trace of these chemicals. Moreover, the studies involved large amounts of coffee – five to six cups a day. Moderate coffee drinkers down only two cups.

Research has also shown that regular, moderate coffee drinking does not dangerously raise blood pressure. And studies have failed to substantiate fears that coffee might trigger abnormal heart rhythms (arrhythmias) in healthy people. "For heart disease, I think the issue is closed," says Meir Stampfer, an epidemiologist at Harvard who has studied many aspects of coffee and health. "Coffee drinking at reasonable levels is unrelated to heart risk."

Evidence suggests that coffee may help fend off Parkinson's disease. A 30-year study of 8000 Japanese-American men found that avid coffee drinkers had one-fifth the risk of those who didn't drink the brew. Scientists at Massachusetts General Hospital, USA, found indirect evidence that Caffeine the habit forming stimulant in coffee – may actually combat Parkinson's. The caffeine seemed to protect mice brain cells from depletion of the nerve chemical dopamine – the problem underlying Parkinson's in humans. However, these are preliminary findings; human studies have not consistently supported caffeine's protective role.

Or, b) Write a report on the celebration of Teacher's Day in your school. (2+8=10)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

Have you ever been to a barbecue? Many of us enjoy roasting meat over the fire but no one ever wonders who first started the idea of cooking meat in a fire. Perhaps, it is just in the human psyche that we sometimes feel the need to return to the primitive times, probably to relieve us of our urbanized life. That is why many people, regardless of age, love to hold barbecue gatherings. The idea of gathering round a fire and roast some meat just sounds fun. The meat may sometimes be half-cooked or not cooked at all (sounds horrible) but the joy of primitive cooking is there.

The first step towards the preparation for a barbecue is to rent a barbecue pit which usually comes with the barest essentials. After all, we are supposed to return to the early time frame. Of course, during peak seasons like the school holidays, when the pits are fully booked, you may try digging one at the back of your garden. Next, get ready the wire netting, otherwise, you will find yourself roasting the meat on the hot charcoal. Skewers which are important for holding the meat pieces; utensils for picking up the food like forks and spoons, paper plates and cups must not be left out.

Next comes the preparation of the most important part of the barbecue – the food. In fact, any kind of meat will be suitable. If meat pieces are bought, like chicken, beef or mutton, slice them into thin pieces before piercing in the skewers. Chicken wings are the best. Simply stretch the wings apart and push in the skewers. Following which, the meat is to be soaked in a mixture of spices for marination, giving them some flavor. An easier and faster way out would be to brush 'Maggie' barbecue sauce over them. Remember to order a few hundred sticks of satay too. A barbecue without satay will not be a barbecue.

When everything is ready, start the fire with charcoal, one hour before the start of the feast. Once the fire is started, let it all burn till glowing embers are left. Then place the sticks of meat over the wire netting and there you are, the barbecue has begun. Do not worry about overcooking the meat. After all, the real joy behind the barbecue lies in the cooking not eating of the food. Just a piece of advice to beginners: Bring along some indigestion medicine.

While there is no denying that the world loves a winner. It is important that you recognize the signs of stress in your behavior, and be healthy enough to enjoy your success. Stress can strike anytime, in a fashion that may leave you unaware of its presence in your life. While a certain amount of pressure is necessary for performance, it is important to be able to recognize your individual threshold. For instance, there are some individuals who accept competition in a healthy fashion. There are others who collapse into weeping wrecks before an exam, or on comparing mark sheets and finding that their friend has scored better.

It is a body reaction to any demands or changes in its internal and external environment. Whenever there is a change in the external environment such as temperature, pollutants, humidity and working conditions, it leads to stress. In these days of competition when a person makes up his mind to surpass what has been achieved by others, leading to an imbalance between demands and resources, it causes psycho-social stress. It is a part and parcel of everyday life.

Stress has a different meaning depending on the stage of life you're in. The loss of a toy or a reprimand from the parents might create a stress shock in a child. An adolescent who fails an examination may feel as if everything has been lost and life has no further meaning.

In an adult, the loss of his or her companion, job or professional failure may appear as if there is nothing more to be achieved.

Such signs appear in the attitude and behaviour of the individual, as muscle tension in various parts of the body, palpitation and high blood pressure, indigestion and hyperacidity and ultimately in self destructive behaviour such as eating and drinking too much, smoking excessively, relying on tranquilisers, trembling, shaking, nervous blinking, dryness of throat and mouth and difficulty in swallowing.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. (1×4=4)

6.a) Write a letter to the Municipal Chairman pointing the need of a playground in your locality. (2+8=10)

Or, b) Write a report on the Children's Film Festival organized by your school. (2+8=10)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

With the invention of televisions, many forms of entertainments have been replaced. Lively programmes like television serials and world news, have removed from us the need to read books or papers, to listen to radios or even to watch movies. In fact, during the 1970s, when televisions were first introduced, cinema theatres suffered great losses as many people chose to stay in the comforts of their homes to watch their favorite programmes.

Indeed, the television brings the world into our house. Hence, by staying at home and pressing some buttons world happenings are immediately presented before us. Children nowadays develop faster in language, owing to the early exposure to television programmes. At such tender age, it would be difficult for them to read books or papers. Thus, television programmes are a good source of learning for them. Furthermore, pronunciations by the newscasters, actors or actresses are usually standardized, hence young children watching these programmes will learn the 'right' pronunciations too. Owning a television is also extremely beneficial to working parents who are usually too busy or tired to take their kids out for entertainments. Surrounded by the comforts of their home, the family can have a chance to get together and watch their favorite television programmes.

Of course, we should not be too carried away by the advantages of the television and overlook its negative points. Watching television programmes takes away our need to read. Why bother to read the papers when we can hear them from the television news reports? Why read books when exciting movies are screened? The lack of reading is unhealthy especially to younger children as they will grow up only with the ability to speak but not write. I have a neighbour whose six-year-old child can say complete sentences like "I like cats," but when told to write out the sentence, is unable to do so. Not only are the writing skills of children affected, their thinking capacities are also handicapped. Television programmes remove the need to think. The stories, ideas and facts are woven in the way television planners wanted. Exposure to such opinions and the lack of thinking opportunities will hinder the children's analyzing ability.

Despite the disadvantages of watching television programmes, personally, I think that choosing the 'middle path', which is to do selective television viewing and not over indulging in the habit should be the best solution to reconcile both the merits and demerits of owning a television.

As a medium of literary expression, the common language is inadequate. Like the man of letters, the scientist finds it necessary to "give a purer sense to the words of the tribe". But the purity of scientific language is not the same as the purity of literary language. The aim of the scientist is to say only one thing at a time, and to say it unambiguously and with the greatest possible clarity. To achieve this, he simplifies and jargonizes. In other words, he uses the vocabulary and syntax of common speech in such a way that each phrase is susceptible to only one interpretation; and when the vocabulary and syntax of common speech are too imprecise for his purpose he invites a new technical language, or jargon specially designed to express the limited meaning with which he is professionally concerned. At its most perfectly pure form, scientific language ceases the matter of words and terms into mathematics.

The literary artist purifies the language of the tribe in a radically different way. The scientist's aim, as we have seen, is to say one thing, and only one thing at a time. This, most emphatically, is not the aim of the literary artist. Human life is lived simultaneously on many levels and has many meanings. Literature is a device for reporting the multifarious facts and expressing their various significance. When the literary artist undertakes to give a pure sense to the words of his tribe, he does so with the express purpose of creating a language capable of conveying, not the single meaning of some particular science, but the multiple significance of human experience, on its most private as well as on its more public levels.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. (1×4=4)

b) Write a report on an Educational Tour organized by your school. (2+8=10)

Or

c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

We are bombarded by many advertisements every day. Vendors try all means and ways to gain our attention and sell us their products or services. Advertisements appear everywhere; on television programmes, in the papers, magazines, pamphlets and so on.

Advertisements are actually very useful though we sometimes feel annoyed when they interrupt our favourite television programmes. They provide us with free information on the products and services. There are two types of advertisements. The informative advertisements are the ones which provide us with the details of the products or services. This information is especially useful if the product or service is new. For instance, when we need to buy a computer, advertisements describing the latest models and their different functions would be extremely helpful. However, only a minority of the advertisements are informative ones. Many of them belong to the second category - the persuasive kind.

These advertisements not only tell us more about the products, at the same time, they persuade customers to buy them by claiming that their products are superior to the rivalry ones. These claims may sometimes be untrue.

Besides being informative and persuasive, advertisements also help to subsidize the prices of magazines and newspapers. Our newspapers are sold at a low price of about one dollar, owing to the advertisements in the papers; otherwise, the price would have been higher. While advertisements can be good helpers for shopping, they do have their shortcomings. More advertisements aim to sell only. Faults of the products or services are usually hidden from the consumers. Hence, sometimes, we feel deceived if the product or service we bought does not turn out the way the advertisements claim to be.

Sometimes, advertisements by rival competitors can get very intensive, especially when there are many firms producing similar products. One common example is the washing powder. There are so many advertisements for the different brands that customers sometimes get confused over what they should buy. Furthermore, having more advertisements would mean that the production cost of the firm would be increased. These rises in cost are usually passed on to the consumers in the form of higher prices.

Hence, in conclusion, though I do advocate advertisements, I do not deny their flaws. Without them, we might have to buy things based on incomplete information or go through more complicated ways before getting to know the products or services. On the other hand, too many advertisements also complicate our buying decisions. So I would say that we cannot live without advertisements but we must be careful how we live with them.

It was bound in a rough, red cloth, now smoothened in places with the many caresses it had received over the years. Its name boldly etched in gold over its hard cover. Its spine still holding on firmly to the age old pages, much thumbed, dog-eared, yellowing pages. Its illustrations, lithographs by the author himself, and a frayed red ribbon placed between the pages I had read the last time. That is my favourite book.

That book startled me off on a journey that inevitably took me to the book alleys that still make the three hundred year old city proud. The fact that my lane meandered through several by-lanes and reached the book alleys in less than fifteen minutes made my trips frequent and my pocket- money meagre. The narrow lanes were lined with small shops with dusty shelves. Their bespectacled shop-owners — bibliophiles in their own right — were always eager to help me find treasures in all shapes and sizes, bound in cloth or leather, some new and some which had changed several hands; others which had corners folded, many in tatters, a few boasting of an autograph or a note written in attention of a loving reader. My prized possession in those days was a book called Sita that was illustrated with paintings by the illustrious Raja Ravi Verma.

Nothing gave me more pleasure than the feel of a cold spine against my palm, the weight of the pages, their slight reluctance to open spontaneously, the faint crick at the turn of each page, and the musty smell of the yellowing pages mixed with a slight whiff of the jet-black ink that filled my nostrils as I brought the book close to my face.

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

Today, with just twenty-six letters, we can write a letter to our friends or answer an examination question. Thousands of years ago, there was no writing system at all. News, knowledge and information were passed on from one person to another by word of mouth. If you ever played 'rumor clinic' where a cognate message is passed from one person to another down the chain by mouth, you will understand the inefficiency of the system. Messages passed down are unreliable as the speakers may mix up or lose part of the information.

The first written language was invented by the early cave man. They tied bits of animal hair together to form brushes and painted pictures on the cave wall, telling their friends about their hunts. It was after several centuries that different writing systems like the Chinese characters and hieroglyphs in Egypt were invented. The alphabetical system that we are using currently also came about only after many decades of development.

Besides alphabets, the invention of writing tools is another major transition. In olden times, the kind of writing tools used, depended on the material they wrote on. For example, in the Middle East, where clay is abundant in supply, the early people used hollow reed ‘pens’ to carve onto the wet clay tablets. After which, these clay pieces were baked till rock hard to make the writings permanent. In ancient Egypt, Egyptians either wrote on scraped thin pieces of animal skins called ‘parchment’ or flattened papaya stems known as ‘papyrus’. Their writing tool was a primitive kind of fountain pen — a reed with ink inside.“

Canada says its denial of visas to Indian security officials on grounds of human rights violations, torture and espionage is a mistake.

India was hurt to the quick at the charges. The government issued an angry warning and said it would take retaliatory measures if Canada did not take corrective measures. Now that it has done so, the two countries could resume the pleasantries. But that wouldn't after the truth. And the truth is that Indian security forces, like most other security forces in the world, routinely commit human rights violations, certainly torture and seriously play at espionage.

Now, we can protest our innocence and act righteous. But we'd be deceiving ourselves. The security forces anywhere in the world will do all these. That is their job. But unlike the more civilized west, our men are not accountable. Consider the high number of custodial deaths — 127 last year alone, according to NHRC, or any number of torture cases. This is a primitive country and sees in violence a kind of catharsis. The recent baying for kasab's public execution, preceded by chopping of limbs is a case in point.

So instead of getting hot under the collar, the Indian authorities should be thanking Canada for holding up a mirror to our ugly face. It is through such diplomatic slip-ups that we know how we are really perceived in a world, at least a part of which is seriously giving a shot at evolving ethically driven societies.

a) State whether the following statements are True or False. Write 'T' for True and 'F' for False. [You need not write sentences, write only the number](1×4 = 4)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

Conflicts between parents and their children at bedtime are common. For adults, sleep is welcome rest. For children, it's lost time, time when they could be doing something fun like playing computer games or finishing a drawing of their cartoon hero. So the youngsters often resist it. And in families where both parents work, the nightly ritual of putting the children to bed can be even more of a tussle. Most parents don't get home until at least seven in the evening, and there's little slack between bath, dinner, homework and bedtime. Whatever the situation, a growing child still requires a decent amount of sleep, and for young school children and toddlers, that's between 10 and 12 hours a night. But what happens when children fight it every step of the way, from taking a bath to putting on pyjamas to getting into bed? When they refuse to sleep alone in bed or wake up repeatedly, or need to be rocked for an hour before nodding off?

Although many parents are consistent, the routine they adopt only results in long, wearying nights. They become caught in a trap they have inadvertently created. Their children rely on them to help get to sleep. Parents cajole, sing to them, rock them, rub their back — only to have the little ones wake the moment they tiptoe out of the room. Quality time disappears, tempers are short, and bedtime becomes a civil war. To frazzled parents who want desperately to escape that trap, Shapleigh suggests the method that worked for a number of families. "You have to let them cry. Be there to reassure them. Leave a night light on, but be consistent. They understand your behavior more than they do your words." Dr Richard Ferber, a paediatrician who is sometimes called the Dr Spock of children's sleep problems, assure parents that most bedtime conflicts are not serious, and they can be avoided. Parents who choose to wait out their child's erratic sleep patterns will probably see them disappear, but that could take months or years.

Instead of waiting, Ferber suggests that parents take action, and after following a pleasant bedtime routine, put the children to bed, leaving them there even if they cry, but checking on them at specific intervals. "There is no way to treat this problem without listening to some crying, but you can keep it to a minimum,” he says. Parents who are fighting the sleep battle with their children often complain of being tired, but forget that their children, who haven’t yet learned to complain, are also tired. “It is in your child’s best interests to have uninterrupted sleep,” Ferber says. For children as well as adults, Ferber says, “sleep serves some restorative function for our bodies and perhaps for our minds, and it is certainly necessary for normal functioning during the day.”

Tomorrow, May 31, is when Delhi's tongas go off the road. In one stroke, over 200 tongawallahs will be left with no option but to discontinue a profession that many of them have been involved in, for generations. It will also be the end of a way of life for many people in old Delhi — used to having the tonga in their midst for commuting around the area. Or, for those who are dependent on it for their livelihood, like horse-shoe makers and cleaners.

Why are tongas being phased out? Apparently, the Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD) decided last year that the tongas cause congestion and pose a threat to traffic security. Therefore, they have to go.

The alternative being provided to the tongawallahs is a tehbazaari or a roadside shop. This shift in profession is something that most tongawallahs are not too keen about — they feel that the shops are located too far away from the old Delhi area where they live. And neither do most of them have the capital to equip the shops with goods nor do they have the inclination to let go of their horses, which inevitably, they will have to, once their tongas are gone.

Is there a solution to their plight? Majority of tongawallahs that I spoke to, are keen on an idea which, if it is implemented, can be a workable solution. It is simply, to let them refurbish their tongas as buggies (carriages) and allow them to cater to tourists in areas like India Gate, Red Fort etc. Indeed, many cities across the world are doing this already – from the 'Victorias' operating near the Gateway of India in Mumbai to the chariots rented out to tourists near the Colosseum in Rome to Fiacres, the quaint carriages that carry visitors around the old city of Vienna.

- iii) Most of the tongawallahs are very keen to give up their horses.
- iv) Tongawallahs wish to change their vehicles into buggies for tourists in areas like India Gate, Red Fort etc.

(2×3=6)

- ii) What alternative is provided to the tongawallahs?
- iii) What solution do the tongawallahs offer?

6.a) Write a letter to the Editor of a newspaper on education of the girl child in rural Bengal.

(10)

Or, b) Write a report on a health camp organized by your school.

(10)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title.

(2+8=10)

Vitamin A is found only in yellow animal fats, in egg-yolk, milk and cheese. It is particularly plentiful in fish-liver oils; hence fish-liver oils are used for preventing and curing illness caused by lack of vitamin A. In a well-fed, healthy human being, the liver can store up sufficient vitamin A to meet the body's requirements for six months. Although vitamin A itself is not present in plants, many plants produce a substance called carotene, formed from leaf-green which our bodies can convert into Vitamin A. Carotene is the yellowish-red colouring matter in carrots. The greener a leaf is the more carotene it usually contains. Hence the importance of green, leafy vegetables in the diet as a source of carotene. Tomatoes, papayas, mangoes and bananas contain more carotene than most other fruits. Red palm oil contains so much carotene that it is used instead of cod-liver oil. Thus, it is very valuable, both as a food-fat and for deep-frying.

Vitamin A and carotene are insoluble in water and they are not destroyed by heat unless oxygen is present. Boiling in water, therefore, does not destroy much vitamin A or carotene. Vitamin A encourages healthy growth and physical fitness. Young animals soon stop growing and die if vitamin A is not present in their diet. This vitamin keeps the moist surfaces lining the digestive canal, the lungs and air passages healthy. It also helps keep the ducts of the various glands, the tissue that lines the eyelids and covers the front of the eyeball functional. As vitamin A helps these tissues build up resistance to infection, it is often called the anti-infective vitamin. Some of the most common disorders in people are caused by a shortage of vitamin A, when the moist tissues become dry and rough. This often causes serious eye disease, followed by infection of the air-passages. The skin may also become flaky and rough. Another defect caused by shortage of vitamin A is 'night-blindness', when the affected person had distinct vision only in bright light.

As the body cannot produce vitamin A, it has to come from external sources. Thus a well-balanced diet is required and is usually sufficient to provide the necessary amount. There is therefore no need to supplement the need in the form of pills.

Sixty years after independence, the caste question looms large in our consciousness. Far from being abolished, the caste system is at the centre of many debates of the day. Whether it is the larger question of the importance of caste in electoral politics, reservations, whether caste should be part of the census or not or the outrage over the Khap panchayat's actions, it is clear that caste is an arena of contention even today.

There is a part of India which sees caste as an outdated institution that needs to be erased from all our calculations. It sees caste as a blight on modernity, a pathogen that infects us. Caste binds us to a collective rooted in the past and imposes on individuals a destiny that is not of their making. Caste hierarchy makes our future contingent on our birth, and those less fortunately born are condemned to a life more ordinary. What makes this more complex is the accelerated attempt to reverse history by the device of reservations which allocate opportunities purposively to the lower castes. This makes the distaste for caste even greater in the educated middle class, who see it as an instrument created for use specifically against them. The advantages that have accrued to this group have been internalized and neutralized and only the disadvantages loom threateningly, particularly as the lower castes accumulate political power.

- i) The uneducated middle class see caste system as an instrument used against them.

6.a. Write a letter to the Editor of a newspaper on the utility of various grants given to students by the state. (2+8 = 10)

Or, b) Write a report on a campaign on "Educate the Girl Child" organized by your school. (2+8=10)

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

There are so many lessons one can learn about life from a dog. Imagine this scenario: it is raining heavily outside and you need to leave for someone's house. The dog is up and eager, to go with you. You tell it to stay home. As you leave, you see it squeezing out through the gap in the doorway. You scold it and order it back home. Then at every turn you make, you suddenly see it following you sheepishly at a distance. It follows at the risk of being reprimanded for the sole reason of being somewhere nearby. How else can we experience so selfless an instance of love and faithfulness? We can learn a lifelong lesson from this sincere warm display of perpetual companionship. Observe the eating habits of your dog. It does not eat, except when hungry. It does not drink, unless it is thirsty. It does not gorge itself. It stops eating when it has had enough.

A dog also sets a perfect example of adaptability. If it is moved to a strange place, it is able to adapt itself to that place and to its thousand peculiarities without a murmur of complaint. It is able to learn and adapt to a new family's ways and customs. It is quick and ready to please. Man, being accustomed to comfort and wealth will be lost if suddenly stripped of all he is accustomed to. A dog also teaches us a thing or two about, unselfish love. When a dog knows death is approaching, it tries, with its last vestige of strength, to crawl away elsewhere to die, in order to burden its owners no more.

A dog does things with all vigor. However, when there is nothing to do, it lies down and rests. It does not waste its strength and energy needlessly. Many working people are burning the candles at both ends. Many suffer nervous breakdowns due to stress. Perhaps, they should learn to rest like a dog does. A dog above all is truly man's best friend.

Auguste Rodin first exhibited his celebrated sculpture "Gates of Hell" in 1900. Monumental in scale Rodin's masterpiece opened up a new world for art. What Van Gogh, Gaugin and Cizanne did for painting, Rodin single-handedly did for sculpture. The inspirations he drew from are the Renaissance, and above all from Michaelangelo, flows through his own work to fertilise the work of generations to come. Rodin had once stated, "The most remote antiquity is my habitat'. I want to link the past to the present; to return to memory, judge it and contrive to complete it. Symbols are the guidelines of humanity. They are no lies". Truth and man's moral stature, these were Rodin's concerns. The food/climate equation is rooted in the earth. The expansion of unsustainable agricultural practices over the past century has led to the destruction of between 30% and 75% of the organic matter on arable lands, and 50% of the organic matter on pastures and prairies. This massive loss of organic matter is responsible for between 25% and 40% of the current excess CO₂ in the earth's atmosphere but the good news is that this CO₂ we have sent into the atmosphere can be put back into the soil, simply by restoring the practices that small farmers have been engaging in for generations.

REDD stands for Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation in developing countries. It is the term under which forest loss is discussed at United Nations (UN) climate meetings. Since 2005, the issue of forest loss has distracted governments at these UN meetings from addressing the real cause of climate change – turning ancient underground deposits of oil, coal and gas into fossil fuels and burning them. Instead of coming up with a plan on how to end the release of greenhouse gas emissions that is the consequence of burning these fossil fuels, the UN climate talks have spent much time debating deforestation of tropical forests. Of course it is important to halt forest loss, also because of the CO₂ emissions that are released when forests are destroyed. But reducing deforestation is no substitute for coming up with a plan on how to stop burning fossil fuel! The trouble with REDD is that it is enabling industrialised countries to burn fossil fuels a little longer.

We arrived at a group of huts on the other side of the river. Many heads peeped out of the huts as soon as our car stopped and many bare-bodied children came and stood around the car staring at it. Our guide jumped out and went to the farthest end of the village street and returned with a man who had a red turban round his head, his only other piece of clothing being a pair of drawers. 'This man has a king cobra?' I looked him up and down and said hesitantly, 'Let me see it.' At which the young boys said, 'He has a vary big one in his house; it is true.' And I asked the lady, " Shall we go and see it?" We set off. The lady stood under the shade of a tree while the man prodded a snake to come out of its basket. It was fairly large, and hissed and spread out its hood, while the boys screamed, ran off and returned. The lady suggested, "You must play on the flute, make it rear its head and dance." It all began when I, Jim Hawkins, was just a boy and my father ran the Admiral Benbow Inn. I remember it as if it was yesterday. A large, heavy man burst in the inn door. He carried a large sea chest and wore a soiled blue coat. His hands were ragged and scarred and his fingernails were black and broken. He had a white scar across one cheek. I remember him looking around and whistling to himself. Then he broke out into an old sea song than he often sang. After finishing his song he introduced himself. He told us only that we should call him "Captain". He threw several gold coins on the table and my father showed him to his room. The captain stayed with us for a long time. He was a silent man by custom. All day long he sat on the cliffs or hung around the cove. During the evening he sat by the fire. Everyday when he came back from his stroll he would ask if any seafaring men had passed by. I soon figured out that the captain asked these questions because he was hiding from someone or something.

Communicating well is not terribly complicated not in theory, anyway. Communicating, after all, is something everyone of us does everyday in our personal lives. We have all been communicating since the early days of our childhood. At least we think we have. But true communication, effective communication is in fact relatively rare in the adult world. There is no secret recipe for learning to communicate well, but there are some basic concepts that can be mastered with relative ease. The first steps to successful communication are – making communication a top priority, being open to other people, creating a receptive environment for communication. No matter how busy you are during the work day, you absolutely must take the time to communicate. All the brilliant ideas in the world are worthless if you don't share them communication can be accomplished in many ways – in meetings, in face to face sessions, just walking down the hall or in the lunchroom. Whats important is that communicating never stop.

5) Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

Mma Ramotswe had a detective agency in Africa at the foot of Kgale Hill. These were its assets : a tiny white van, two desks, two chairs, a telephone and an old typewriter. Then there was a teapot, in which Mma Ramotswe – The only lady private detective in Botswana – brewed Red bush tea. And three mugs – one for herself, one for her secretary and one for the client. What else does a detective agency really need? Detective agencies rely on human intuition and intelligence, both of which Mma Ramotswe had in abundance. No inventory could ever include those, of course.

But, there was also the view, which again could appear on no inventory. How could any such list describe what one saw when one looked out from Mma Ramotswe's door? To the front, an acacia tree, the thorn tree which dots the wide edges of the Kalahari; the great white thorns, a warning; the olive-grey leaves, by contrast, so delicate.

In 1890 Mrs. Lamson who had been one of Laura Bridgeman's teachers, and who had just returned from a visit to Norway and Sweden came to see me and told me of Ragnhild Kata, a deaf and blind girl in Norway who had actually been taught to speak. Mrs. Lamson had scarcely finished telling me about this girl's success before I was on fire with eagerness. I resolved that I, too, would learn to speak. I would not be satisfied until my teacher took me, for advice and assistance, to Miss Sarah Fuller, Principal of the Horace Mann School. This lovely sweet natured lady offered to teach me herself, and we began on the 26th of March 1890.

Miss Fuller's method was this – she passed my hand lightly over her face, and let me feel the position of her tongue and lips when they made a sound. I was eager to imitate every motion and in an hour had learned six elements of speech : M, P, A, S, T, I.

The rose is a lovely flower. There are flowers as sweet as the rose but they are not so beautiful. Again there are flowers as beautiful as the rose but they do not smell as sweet. Rose grows wild in most parts of the world. But the wild roses are not as large and as beautiful as those that grow in gardens. Roses can be of different colours; some are white, some red and some yellow. During the victorian Era, the practice of flower giving took on an added dimension with the advent of the language of flowers. One of the most significant meanings that have survived till today is the use of one dozen red roses as a declaration of love.

A "Nightingale personified" can be the right expression to describe the majestic voice of Lata Mangeshkar, the heartthrob of Indian music lovers from Kashmir to Kanyakumari. Born in 1929 in Mumbai she had evinced a strong love for music. She was trained in classical music first by her father Dinanath Mangeshkar and then by Ustad Aman Khan Bhendibazarwala, a renowned vocalist of his time. In her music-career spanning 6 decades Lata Mangeshkar sang more than 25,000 songs in almost all Indian languages and for almost all leading heroines of Indian Cinema. She was only 13 when she recorded her first film song in Hindi. Then in 1947, she had a big break as a playback singer. 1949 proved for her to be the most successful year as all her songs were superhit. Lata is distinguished from other singers for her amazing mastery over pitch and scale, her luscious voice and naturalness.

To get great ideas we require great teachers. These teachers may be living persons with whom we come to contact daily; they may be dead and yet reach us through great books which they have given to the world. In whatever way it comes, the teaching required is that which guides to a large outlook. There is no royal road to learning. The higher it is, the harder is the toil of the spirit that is required for its attainment. But this toil brings with it happiness. As we advance along the path we see more and more new territory to traverse, new heights to scale. In all this there is much of the sweet in sad and the sad in sweet.

The Romans had discovered that by mixing volcanic ashes in proper proportions they could secure a cement which would harden under water. They named it Puzzolona, and made much use of it in their water supply and harbour works. Long before this time, since the dawn of history, lime had been used. Some of it, now called hydraulic lime had the power of hardening more or less under water and was doubtlessly used in that way. Not until 18th century however, was it discovered that any limestone which happens to contain clay will harden only in air. In 1824 Joseph Aspdin invented portland cement. He gave it that name because it looked like the stone in the Cliffs of Portland, Dorset. He mixed ground limestone and clay and burned them in a furnace until they become fused. He then ground the clinker into a fine powder and found that he had a cement with extraordinary qualities which was destined to revolutionize construction throughout the world.

Our conscience acts like a rudder in helping to guide us in the way we should go. If we are wise, we will always let ourselves be guided by it. Just as a ship is stured through stormy waters by its rudder, our conscience can also take us through times of weakness and temptation. The word 'rudder' is often described as something serving to guide, direct or control. Thus this is exactly why our creator gave us conscience. When we start to do something, that is not exactly right, our conscience sets up a warning system that is difficult to overlook. Our conscience gives us orders. The person, who does not know, how to receive and obey orders, has a great deal to learn. Especially when the orders come from within us, they should be heeded.

Kolkata : The New Town Kolkata Development Authority (NKDA) has decided to spray Bacillus Thuringiensis Israelensis (BTI), a kind of bacteria that destroys mosquito larvae, to prevent outbreak in the township.

NKDA officials said that BTI will be sprayed using a hand compression machine having a tank capacity of 10 litre or more. An agency is being selected for the work.

It was four years back when the idea to use BTI as a mosquito killing agent was proposed by Gautam Chandra, a Zoology professor of Burdwan University. A report submitted by Chandra and his team had mentioned, "Spraying mosquito larvaecidal agents like BTI, a kind of naturally occuring bacteria that infects and kill mosquito larvae, is an effective solution. These bacteria are highly selective, killing only mosquitoes, fungus gnats and blackflies. In the Bhagwad Gita Krishna emphatically declares there is no place for grief in life. We invite grief into our lives by unintelligent identification. We further compound the problem by suffering in anticipation of pain, anguish during the experience and agonising in memory of past trauma. The root cause is ignorance . The Gita says the world is a mix of pairs of opposites, is ever-changing, and is unpredictable. Understand the world as it is Enjoy it, but never depend on it. Then the same world that now gives stress, will become pleasurable. You will be happy. Grief and delusion come from identification with body, mind and intellect the little self. When your view everything from a personal angle, there is grief. View the same thing from a larger perspective, there is peace.

The brilliant history of Indian paintings starts from the wall paintings of Ajanta — the frescoes. Scholars believe that during that period, nowhere in the world were such fascinating and amazing paintings created as in the thirty caves of Ajanta. The paintings represent the golden period of Indian art. These temples of Ajanta are situated in the district of Aurangabad in Maharashtra. Twenty-nine of these thirty caves are complete. The thirtieth cave is very small and incomplete some scenes of Buddha's life are inscribed here and some statues of Buddha have been found in this cave. Regrettably for a hundred years, this place remained the home of wild animals and birds. In 1819, some officers of the Madras Regiment noticed these caves for the first time while hunting. Thereafter several attempts were made to prepare copies of these paintings so that the world gets to know about them. Some copies were made with the help of Sri Nandalal Bose and his students between 1909 and 1911. After Independence, the Government of India published the paintings in four volumes, which the Lalit Kala Akademi got photographed.

The subjects of these paintings are varied. Different aspects of life have been captured in colour. In spite of their limited means, the artists moulded with such skill and perfection that even today we are fascinated by the rhythm and the balance of the ornamentation.

Language is for the benefit of others. We do not converse with ourselves. Our choice of words depends on the comprehension level of the other person, so that he understands what we are trying to communicate. Be careful in your choice of words as bad communication can end relationships. You should come to the point straightaway without beating about the bush. Be clear about what you want to communicate and then speak. A scattered mind leads to unnecessary use of words. You are evaluated on the basic of what and how you speak. Do not use words that reflect anger or arrogance. By mere words alone, you can make friends or enemies. Your words will be remembered for a long time, so you should not use malicious words. Whenever you meet someone, honour him with your words.

Swami Vivekananda argued that men and women are not at odds with each other. Neither male nor female is superior. To describe women as inferior because they are unable to cope with the physical strength of men is to use a false standard to judge their potential, he suggested. Instead of harping on equality of sexes, he adduced the argument of 'the perfect balance' and harmony in nature to prove that living beings are cast in varied moulds to perform different types of functions, and thus each holds a unique position in the cosmological order.

Like Sri Ramkrishna Paramhansa, his spiritual preceptor, Swami Vivekananda regarded all women as manifestations of the Universal Mother. A woman not only undergoes the ordeal of maternity but also faces daunting problems in nurturing her children. As the epitome of love, service and sacrifice, the mother commands respect in society. 'In India, the mother is the centre of the family, our highest ideal', said Swami Vivekananda.

However, he regretted that Indian women have been 'trained in helplessness, servile dependence on others' and so they were good only to weep their eyes out at, the slightest approach of a mishap or danger.' He also regretted that parents in India regarded girls as a liability and married them off at an early age. He complimented the British Government for passing the Age of Consent Act, 1891, which prohibited a man, under the threat of penalty, to marry a girl child below twelve.

5. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow :

Yampa : Iconic animals such as elephants, tigers, lions and giant pandas are everywhere in movies, books and toy stores. But their wide pop-culture presence skews public perception of how endangered these animals are, researchers said on Thursday.

Online surveys, joo websites, animated films and school questionnaires were scoured by US and French researches for the study. Using these sources, scientists made a list of the top 10 most charismatic animals : tigers, lions, elephants, giraffes, leopards, pandas, cheetahs, polar bears, gray wolves and gorillas.

Researchers also found that almost 49% of all the non-teddy bear stuffed animals sold in the US on Amazon were one of these 10 charismatic animals.

Unknowingly, the companies that use giraffes, cheetahs or polar bears for marketing purposes may be actively contributing to the false perception that these animals are not at risk of extinction, and therefore not in need of conservation.

William Ripple, a professor of forest ecology at Oregon State University in the US, Said, "If we don't act in a concerted effort to save these species, that may soon be the only way anyone will see them."

Throughout the world, man has always been fighting for his rights. Much of the strife is a result of man's belief that he is being denied his rights and his quest for regaining them. The general trend has everybody demanding for their rights, for their share, for fairness in everything in life. But the Prophet Says : A believer should be duty conscious and as far as his rights are concerned he should ask them from God. It is believers duty to give to others what is due from him and as far as his rights are concerned he should ask for them only from God. Instead of being Rights-Conscious, he should be Duty-Conscious. One person's duty is another's right. So if we all fallow the principle of being duty concious, automatically our rights will be taken care of. Nevertheless, complete justice and total fairness is not possible in this imperfect world.

Fear can be very crippling. Whether you are a Student who has to face exams or a corporate executive who has to meet Company goals, it is not easy to live in fear. You may even feel pressure to overcome this fear, but may not have the right tools to understand it, To be against any negative feeling is a wrong approach. One has to be in harmony with what is and not in conflict with what is. So if someone says be against fear, it is not proper. Do not be against anything. Just be aware. Learn from fear what it wants you to learn. If you can learn to assess a situation properly and see fear clearly you will be in control of it, rather than have it controlling you.

c) Write a Precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. $2 + 8 = 10$

Most of us lead a folded up life. We live within the limits of Social sanction and approval, however regressive some archaic rooms, we conform to, may be. We move from birth to marriage to death within the Sanctioned norms — some of which may be good for society, whilst others are part of a past that needs to change. Since life is uncertain and unpredictable, we have to be able to adjust and compromise. We have to be constantly prepared for new happenings. We are often unprepared for life. When faced with necessary change, if we see life as an unfolding story, we will always be innovating, finding creative ways of solving our problems and reacting with ingenuity to the circumstances we mere unprepared for in the first place. To lead folded up lives means that we do not use our full potential. We are cramped in our responses and reactions. We follow a set path, even though wider personal experiences are inviting us to enrich our existence.

Or, c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. 2+8=10

"The deepest personal defeat suffered by human beings is constituted by the difference between what one was capable of becoming and what one has in fact become." The sad thing is that most of the people have lost sight of the human gifts that lie within them and have resigned themselves to spending the best years of their lives watching television. By concentrating on what they don't have, they neglect the talents they do have. The greatest people who have gone before us all had a simple strategy that ensured their success : they knew themselves. They made the time to reflect on their core abilities – those special qualities that made them unique — and spent the rest of their lives refining and expanding them. You see, we are all endowed with the capacity for genius.

Perhaps you have just not taken the time to discover what your personal gifts are and then honed them to the level where you are considered brilliant.

5) Read the following passage and answer the questions the follow :

Long hours of sitting, while raising the risk of diabetes and cardiovascular disease, may also threaten brain health, medical researchers said on Thursday after what they described as a "preliminary study."

The study by US researchers has suggested that prolonged sitting appears to be associated with changes in the medial temporal lobe (MTL), a section of the brain critical for formation of new memories. Their study have also suggested that physical activity, even at high levels, is insufficient to offset the harmful effects of prolonged sitting.

The researchers speculate that the thinning of the MTL could be a precursor to memory problems or dementia in middle-aged persons or older adults.

Boston university researchers had in 2015 observed that people aged between 55 and 82 years who took more steps through either walking or jogging performed better on memory tests than those who were sedentary.

Another US study last year had found that people at risk of Alzheimers disease who spend time in moderate physical activity the equivalent of a brisk walk—are more likely to show healthy patterns of glucose metabolism, a measure of brain health and activity.

c) Write a precis of the following passage. And add a suitable title to it. 2+8=10

When a nightingale sings, would you ask why is ‘needs’ to sing? No. Singing is not the nightingales need, it is its nature. Its only man who assesses everything in terms of needs and benefits. Just as a bird sings, the world too is the song of God! There is no need for the word ‘need’. Have you known a painter who has never created a painting? No. A painter creates paintings to express himself; painting is a means for him to realize his creative potential. In the same way, the world is a painting by God. an expression of pure consciousness. The sole purpose of the world is for God to realize himself through his creative potential. The manifestations of the world serves as a reflection for consciousness to be aware of itself. Just as a painter expresses his pure unexpressed potential through his art out of sheer joy, the world too is an expression of bliss from the pure unexpressed state of God. God exists in the state of boundless bliss.

One of the greatest poets of all ages in the history of English literature, William Wordsworth had a long and fruitful life (April 7, 1770- April 23, 1850). He was born at Cockermouth, Cumberland. He graduated in 1791. He had already experienced a walking tour in France and Switzerland and paid a second visit to France in Late 1791. His first political effort, An evening walk was published in 1793.

As early as 1794 he decided to take up the vocation of a poet, devoting all his energies and time to literary pursuits and his mission owed much of its success to the resolve of his sister, Dorothy, to remain for ever, his life long companion and assistant. A meeting with S.T. Coleridge in 1797 proved crucially important in his life. It led to their intimate friendship and joint publication of the lyrical Ballads in 1798, which marked the beginning of the Romantic Age in English literature. For its second edition Wordsworth wrote his famous 'Preface' where in general, he talked about the nature and effect of poetry and in particular, of the new poetry, he brought to the readers.

Some people say that life and death are opposites. That's not true. It is birth and death that are opposites. They are entry and exit points to various worlds. Life is eternal and therefore, has no opposite. When one door closes, another opens when we are born on Planet Earth, we in a sense, die in the world we came from. When we die on Earth, we are once again born in the world that we go to. This is the Spirit realm that has infinite levels and dimensions. Where no end up depends on how much we learned and evolved during our lives on earth. The caterpillar thought it was the end of the world until it became a butterfly. We are spiritual butterflies having a caterpillar experience.

Driving home the message that "Festivals should be inclusive celebration," TOI recently launched a short film on inclusive Shindoor Khela that it hosted under the campaign of #No Conditions Apply.

In the context of Durga Pujo, which is a mega celebration of home coming of Shakti, the campaign called for an all - inclusive community celebration. Celebrated as a community gathering on the last day of Durga Pujo (Dashami), Shindoor Khela is a tradition that has been celebrated by married women who play with vermilion by smearing it on each other's faces, while widows, divorcees, transgenders, single mothers remained uninvited. As a part of this campaign, TOI joined hanads with Tridhara Sammilani — one of the Durga Pujo organisers in Kolkata for the on-ground celebration which was recorded in a short documentary format.

Speaking about the campaign, Sanjeev Bhargava, Director, Brand TOI, said, "Celebrations are meant to be a joyous time for everyone, not to make anyone feel unwanted or uninvited. The campaign raises a pertinent issue of gender equity and the fact that festivals need to be inclusive."

The film beautifully captures women — married, widow, transgender, lesbian, single mother, divorce — all playing Shindoor Khela together, bringing humanity closer.

c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. 2+8=10

Each child is nurtured by the goal of ambition through parents and society – the message is dinned into their heads that they need to become 'Something' or 'Someone' important and useful. The child has to prove that he has some worth, by bringing in gold medals, whether it is in sports, music, dancing or debates. There is no respite, for this fire of ambition is lit and stoked even well into adulthood, middle age and now even in old age. The Atmopanishad says that our internal self is the victim of 'ambition' and we become vulnerable to baser elements like anger, jealousy, greed, frustration and suicidal feelings. Instead of making the child ambitious about reaching the top, parents and society need to recognise the child's talents, qualities and potential, and nourish these in an atmosphere that encourages individuality. Every child is unique. There is nothing to become, nothing to achieve.

Krishna's song had changed Arjuna's perspective of the battlefield. This was not Kurukshetra, where war was about property or vengeance. This was Dharma-Kshetra, where Arjuna would triumph over his fear, guilt and rage.

Arjuna picked up his magnificent bow, the Gandiva, and requested Krishna to take him towards the enemy lines. As the chariot rolled, Arjuna's banner with the image of Hanuman fluttered against the blue sky. The deep sound of Devdutt, Arjuna's conch-shell, filled the air, joined by the sound of Panchajanya, Krishna's conch-shell. Together, they announced the start of the war.

Far away, in the place of Hastina-puri, the blind king and his blindfolded wife heard Sanjay describe the scene thus : 'Then commenced the battle between your sons and your nephews, O monarch, which was as fierce and awful as the battle between the Devas and the Asuras. Men and crowds of chariots and elephants, and elephant-warriors and horsemen by thousands, and steeds, all possessed of great prowess, encountered one another.

c) Write a precis of the following passage. Add a suitable title. (2+8=10)

Life is about growth, experience and learning. Life is eternal. Sometimes we don't understand why "bad" things happen to us. Whether this refers to relationship problems, finances, career confusions, health issues, addictions, depression or any other predicament, we need to be aware that no matter how dark it may seem, there is always light somewhere. We only have to find it and if that seems too hard, we only have to sincerely ask the light to find us. When this happens, we will begin to change our outlook. We will understand that "bad" things are only lessons that we have to learn and experience, to grow spiritually. Consider the physical body. If you want to build or strengthen your muscles, you have to overcome resistance in the form of weights. Similarly, life's difficulties are the resistance that our souls need to overcome, in order to grow and become stronger.
